Virgin Mobile Canada Launches Integrated Storefront Service Powered by LiveWire Mobile

New Service Provides Virgin Mobile Canada's Customers with Multimedia Content from a Single Source

LITTLETON, Mass., July 26, 2010 – Virgin Mobile Canada, in collaboration with LiveWire Mobile, Inc. (Pinksheets: LVWR), today announced the launch of a new service, which provides subscribers with a convenient way to purchase and download DRM-free full-track music, ringtones, wallpapers, games, and applications.

The new service helps unify and simplify all of Virgin Mobile Canada's download services into a cohesive shopping experience for its customers. Available across compatible mobile devices, Virgin's customers have access anytime and anywhere to personalize their mobile experience with a wide variety of multimedia content from major label artists and leading games and application producers.

The LiveWire Mobile InfuseTM Platform, the core technology powering the integrated storefront service, is a complete end-to-end, multi-content, service delivery platform offering robust, centralized content management and reporting tools and a web service that opens the door to third-party applications. It allows service providers to market personalized content to consumers yielding a seamless and intuitive shopping experience.

"At Virgin Mobile, we're constantly looking for ways to offer our members more choice and entertainment that they can enjoy on their mobile phone," said Robert Blumenthal, president, Virgin Mobile Canada. "LiveWire Mobile's proven technology platform lets us offer the widest selection of downloads and personalization features to our members – in one integrated and easy-to-use storefront. We're delighted to be working with Livewire for our new storefront and continuing to bring the latest entertainment offers – from wallpapers to DRM-free full track downloads – to all of our members."

LiveWire Mobile's integrated storefront service features an easy-to-use discovery and purchase experience that keeps consumers coming back for more. The service offers content providers across all media types a secure and highly scalable distribution and content delivery platform to expand their reach across multiple consumer device channels.

"The integrated storefront service is proven in the marketplace as a valuable offering for service providers wishing to increase ARPU from content sales, drive down operating expenses and establish themselves as the source for digital content," said Matthew Stecker, president and chief executive officer at LiveWire Mobile. "We believe that Virgin Mobile Canada and its customers will benefit from our innovative service, which allows for easy shopping of content including ringtones, DRM-free full tracks and video."

Key features of the LiveWire Mobile integrated storefront service include:

- Recommendations Multi-content recommendations logic connects data from multiple user touch points to present the most relevant content to each user to ensure a truly personalized experience
- Multimedia Bundles Dynamic merchandising tools maximize cross-sell opportunities by bundling content of the same type or any combination of content types;
- Promotional Pricing On-demand and dynamic configuration of pricing by individual content, content collection, content provider and artist; and
- Campaign Management Enables rapid creation and distribution of specialized promotions on separate and concurrent portals, including micro-sites, and targeting specific sets of users across multiple devices.
