

GSI Expands Service Team and Opens First International Office in Canada in Response to Continuing Growth

ATLANTA and EDMONTON, Canada, June 25, 2012 PRNewswire/ -- In response to a stronger than expected first half year, Atlanta-based GSI, Inc. (www.getGSI.com) has opened its first international office in Canada and announced a broadening of its U.S.-based services and consulting teams.

The new Canadian office is based in Edmonton, Alberta and is led by Marcus Jarrett, principal solution architect. Mr. Jarrett has more than 10 years of experience in the IT industry. He was the CNC team lead at Flint Energy Services and worked as a senior systems analyst at North American Construction Group and as a systems specialist at PCL Construction. The Canadian office will support GSI's clients in Canada as well as organizations in the U.S.

"Despite an unsettled domestic economy, GSI's business has grown strongly in 2012 on top of the banner year we enjoyed in 2011," said Kevin Herrig, president and CEO, GSI, Inc. "Increasing requests for support in Canada, and our booming domestic business, have allowed us to expand our international presence and to further invest in our team by hiring some of the strongest JD Edwards software specialists in the market."

Recent additions to the GSI team include:

- a vice president of delivery who will manage the company's largest accounts and help to ensure the delivery of consistent quality service for all customers;
- two principal support consultants;
- two additional client managers committed to making sure clients obtain the value they have come to depend on GSI for; and
- one principal field consultant who will interact with clients on site in their facilities.
